A song about Global Warming

By Joe Reilly and Ralph Carnegie's 5th Grade Class November 2008

[Chorus 1] [F/C/Bb]

No more global climate change/When will people rearrange? [x2]

[Verse 1] [F/C/Bb]

Global warming sucks it costs us big bucks

Coal burning power plants driving cars and trucks

Emit the greenhouse gases that get the heat stuck

If we don't change our ways we'll be out of luck

[Chorus 2]

Cow farts break my heart/Cow farts break my heart [x2]

[Verse 2]

Methane is released from landfills and cattle

Polluting the atmosphere from here to Seattle

To stop global warming we don't need a battle

But there are some factories and industries to rattle

Humans are causing it so humans should be pausing it

Many other species are suffering because of it

Ice caps are melting while sea levels rise

Can't we please ask ourselves if this way is wise?

Reduce reuse recycle use solar energies

Drive less walk more clean up factories

Ride a bike ride the bus plant a lot of trees

Become a vegetarian and smile more please [smile w/ thumbs up!]

[Bridge] [Am/G/F]

[Gabe, Avi, Aaron]: Polar Bears

[All]: Bears!

[GAA]: Dyin' everywhere

[All]: Where?

[GAA]: Out in the arctic polar bears are dyin' there

[All]: Cause people are lazy they don't even care

[GAA]: Polar bears

[All]: Bears!

[Chorus 1]

No more global climate change/When will people rearrange? [x2]

This whole thing is terrible for animals unbearable

Think of all the polar bears polluting factories don't care

Lets move on to solar power save the world by the hour

Stop global warming now take the no pollution vow

[Chorus 1+2 together, Joe drops out]

[#1-13 "cow farts" #14-27 "no more"]

[sing 2x each and then switch for 2x]

[end 1x all together "no more"]
